Case Study: Furniture Case Study: GSA Navy Hill

Client
GSA Navy Hill

Challenge:
GSA relocated to a renovated historic building within the Navy Hill complex in Washington, D.C., without funding to purchase furniture for an office of 15 staff members.

Solution:

TPM assessed existing furniture, conducted field measurements of the renovated space, and identified available surplus furnishings to support a strategic reconfiguration plan.

Results:

TPM optimized the workspace by integrating panel-supported workstations and freestanding case goods, and by designing functional conference, reception, and break room areas.

Key Takeaway:

TPM delivers effective space planning solutions that support operational continuity, regardless of budget or schedule limitations.
